

Leon Polk Smith, Center Columns, Blue Red, 1946

Polk-Smith uses simple rectangular and square shapes to create a repeating pattern that might represent basket weaving traditions drawn from his Native American heritage. What patterns from your family's history could you use to create art with?